

Transwide & Teleroute appoints Alexander Sollmann as Director of Product Management

Brussels 12th October 2017 – Transwide & Teleroute are delighted to announce Alexander Sollmann as Director of Product Management.

Alexander Sollmann will be responsible for the product management for full portfolio of Transport Management Softwares and Freight Exchanges. In this role he will bring over 24 years of experience in the transport & logistics industry, of which a decade was spent at Transporeon.

In this new role Alexander will be in charge of developing the road map of the Transwide and Teleroute software globally, leveraging his knowledge of workflow software and SaaS application to create unique solutions that allow Shippers, Logistics Providers and Carriers to save time, improve margins and manage their operations at lower costs.

“I am very interested in exploring new ways of combining all of Transwide & Teleroute products, wherever it makes sense,” said Alexander Sollmann. “Within this new group we have clear USPs over our competitors, but it is up to us to use them to become best in class. I look forward to a fruitful working environment with motivated colleagues in an international company. From what I have seen so far, I will not be disappointed!”

“I am very pleased to welcome Alexander to our company. As we are gearing up for acceleration of our growth initiatives, his experience and his customer focus will be critical to help us create solutions that deliver great value for our clients” said Fabrice Maquignon CEO of Transwide and Teleroute.
